The correct "Methods and materials" section is given here: Methods and materials BLI imaging was performed as previously described \[2\]. Briefly, imaging was performed at BLI1 (H107) and BLI2 (H107) using the IVIS Spectrum live animal imaging system (Xenogen). The mice were anesthetized by an intraperitoneal injection of a mixture of ketamine (100 mg/kg) and xylazine (10 mg/kg), and the images were obtained at the optical exposure time of 5-10 s. The images were processed and quantified using Living Image software (Xenogen). The tumor volumes were calculated using an ellipsoid formula ( $l \times w \times h \times 0.5236$ ) \[3\]. Results In the revised manuscript \[@CR1\], in the "Results" section, the authors modified the numbers of tumor in each group as follows: "Mice in the untreated control group formed lung nodules with tumor sizes of only 2-6 mm after 8-12 weeks, and these nodules were confined to the left lung and did not significantly expand during the observation period. In the mice receiving 1  $\mu$ g of rIL-12 alone, tumor sizes ranged from 2 to 5 mm at 8 weeks after implantation and these nodules did not significantly expand during the observation period.
